NORTH PACIFIC
BASE OF JAPS
BOMBED AGAINSOUTH APPROACH TO PHILIPPINES
ALSO POUNDED

Washington, Aug. 24. (P)—American bombers, pounding again at Paramushiro in the North Pacific, sank one small Japanese cargo vessel off shore there and scored a number of direct hits on storage areas at the enemy's most powerful northern Pacific base.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet commander, reporting the attack which was carried out Sunday said today that one of Japanese fighter planes which sought to intercept the American bomber flight was shot down. Anti-aircraft fire was meager and all American planes returned to their base.

Nimitz reported also that other bombing planes on Tuesday flew through meager anti-aircraft fire to batter bivouac areas on Yap Island and far to the south in the western Pacific Caroline Islands.

Meantime, 16 said, other planes carried on their regular assaults against Pagan and Rota Islands in the Marianas and against Nauru, Japanese phosphate supply source.

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Friday, Aug. 25. (P)—A record bomb load of 156 tons was dropped on Halmahera Island, southern guardian of the Philippines, by Allied bombers continuing their blistering attacks, headquarters announced today.

This brings to more than 400 tons the explosives unloaded on Halmahera in the last three raids to be reported. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique Wednesday said 135 tons had been expended on the octopus-shaped island, and the previous day he announced a 110-ton raid.

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Aug. 24. (P)—For the fourth straight day Seventh U. S. Army Air Force Liberators bombed Yap Island, crad Pacific typhoons 1,200 miles southeast of Manila.

The attack was made Tuesday by warplanes based in the recently captured Marianas Islands, and announced today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

Japanese bivouacs and airfields were bombed.

Campaign Tightens
On Truck Speed To Save Heavy Tires

Lansing, Aug. 24. (P)—The state police today tightened a campaign to reduce excessive speeds by truck drivers in an attempt to conserve dwindling supplies of heavy tires.

The step was taken at the request of the Office of Price Administration and Governor Kelly. The executive office said that Birckhead L. Williams, regional OPA administrator, had appealed to Kelly for state police help in checking speeds. Williams told Kelly that August quotas of heavy tires had been reduced more than 50 per cent from the already low July quota.

SOVIETS FREE PRIESTS

New York, Aug. 24. (P)—The Polish telegraph agency said today that underground army forces in Warsaw had stormed the German police headquarters in Warsaw and freed eight priests seized as hostages in the Nazi "surrender or die" ultimatum to the Polish resistance troops.

Demobilization And Reconversion Bill Is Approved For House

Washington, Aug. 24. (P)—The House Ways and Means committee today approved a postwar demobilization and reconversion bill, after rejecting the administration's program which called for broader jobless benefits in the reconversion period.

The committee action on the legislation came after it voted down a proposal by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes that the unemployment benefits coverage be liberalized, with a minimum standard of 26 weeks payments, in amounts up to $20 weekly.

It sided with the Senate in leaving the jobless compensation program in the hands of the states.

Before heading the legislation to the House floor, for debate starting Tuesday, the committee struck out large portions of the Senate approved demobilization bill.

It struck out all the Senate provisions for re-training and re-employment of war workers, and eliminated 3,500,000 government workers from the unemployment compensation.

Savage Gun
Fights Rage
In Marseille

BY SID FEDER
Marseille, France, Aug. 24. (P)—This greatest seaport of France may have been captured, as French forces officially announced last night, but you would never believe it by what is going on inside the city today.

There was gun fighting in virtually every street, not only from strong pockets of the enemy in various parts of the city of 800,000 but also among Frenchmen as patriots tried to clear places where collaborators were believed hidden.

Today in various other parts of the city I saw the same savage street fighting I witnessed yesterday at the point where the Boulevard de la Madeleine joins the famous Canebiere. And at that point, too, action was still hot. Anti-aircraft fire of Germans held out in Fort St. Jean and Fort San Nicholas at the waterfront point guarding Vieux port. They fired light artillery down the Canebiere like pouring oil in a funnel.

Wehrmacht Rounded Up
There were far fewer Germans in this second largest city of France tonight, however. Mopping up, street by street and house by house, French troops have rounded up nearly 500 of the Wehrmacht, most of them apparently veteran troops.

In the late afternoon after several civilians and soldiers had met death in blazing gunfighting, the Germans finally were overrun and the city was ours. But it was a ripping, tearing, slugging match while it lasted.

Although Marseille was completely occupied, there were still small pockets being mopped up tonight.

People here, in great need of food, said the Germans had been taking virtually everything edible. There is little damage to the city, but the port area is badly shattered.

ACE U. S. AIRMAN
REPORTED SAFEMissing Gabreski Now
Listed As Prisoner
In Germany

Washington, Aug. 24. (P)—Lt. Col. Francis Gabreski, missing since he flew out on volunteer extra duty July 20 to protect his standing as America's all-time top air ace, is a prisoner of war.

The war department in making the late announcement that the 25-year-old Oil City, Pa., flier is held in Germany, still withheld details of his last operational flight.

The fact that the Thunderbolt pilot was missing was announced in England July 29 and the news that he is alive, though a prisoner, brought joy to his family at Oil City, Pa., and to Kay Cochran of Prairie Du Chien, Wis., his 20-year-old fiancée.

At the time Gabreski was reported missing, his record stood at 28 enemy planes shot out of the air and three more destroyed on the ground. His air kill total was one more than that of Major Robert S. Johnson of Lawton, Okla., in Europe, and Major Richard I. Bong of Poplar, Wis., leading ace of the Pacific theater. He still was seven planes back of Wing Commander J. E. Johnson, commander of a Canadian Spitfire squadron, leading ace of the R. A. F.

REDS PUSH ON
AS ROMANIANS
GIVE UP FIGHTFOUR STRONGHOLDS
FALL IN THRUST
TO DANUBE

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Friday, Aug. 25. (P)—Sweeping through hundreds of towns and capturing thousands of Germans and Romanians in a 28-mile advance, two powerful Russian armies yesterday plunged to within 58 miles of the Galati Gap, last enemy defense line barring the way to the heart of capitulated Romania.

Soviet front reports said the Axis was collapsing after the desertion of Romanian troops.

Four major strongholds, Chisinau, Moldavia capital, Roman, Bacau, Husi and Barlad, fell in swift succession to the Russians—and with the seizure of Barlad the Red army was less than 60 miles from the Danube River and 135 miles from Bucharest, the capital.

Prisoners Total 25,000

During yesterday alone the Russian armies took 25,000 prisoners, Moscow's broadcast bulletin said, for a combined total of 47,000, in a whirlwind five-day offensive.

Dispatches via Switzerland said the German Eighth army between the Prut and Siret Rivers was in imminent danger of being engulfed by the defection of Rumania, and that the Nazi Sixth army in southern Romania also was threatened with entrapment by the Russian detachments pouring down along the eastern side of the Carpathian mountains.

Two orders of the day by Premier-Marshall Joseph Stalin announced the quick Russian victories by Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine army and Gen. Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukraine army.

Chisinau, a city of 120,000, fell to troops of both armies. Stalin called it an "important communications junction and powerful stronghold in the defenses of the enemy." A salute of 24 salvos from 324 Moscow guns was ordered in celebration.

Bastions Encircled

For months the Germans had depended on Chisinau, on the Odessa-Iasi railway nearly 80 miles northeast of the columns which seized Barlad, as a defensive "bolt" position. But the city's doom was sealed when Malinovsky's troops raced southward far beyond it, and Tolbukhin's forces crossed the Dniestr River below it in an encircling movement likely to have trapped many Germans.

London, Aug. 24. (P)—The British war office announced tonight that the last stretch of the English "invasion coast" on the east and southeastern sides of the island would be reopened to the public.

The army still is in control along the shore however and the war office warned the public there still was danger of robot bombs coming over the coast. The British information service emphasized that warning, declaring flying bomb salvos had reached such a pitch that 17,000 homes were being destroyed or damaged by them every 24 hours.

The Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE

ON THE WESTERN FRONT—(By Wireless)—I would like to tell you in detail the remarkable story of the wounded RAF pilot whom we released after he had lain unnoticed in the wreckage of his plane for eight days on a battlefield.

Several American soldiers sprung out of somewhere a few moments after we arrived. They grasped the situation instantly, and began tearing at the sides of the plane with pliers and wire cutters. They worked as though seconds had suddenly become jewels. The tough metal came off in strips no bigger than your fingers, and only after terrific pulling and yanking. It seemed as if it would take hours to make a hole big enough to get the pilot out. The ripping and pounding against the metal sides of the hollow plane made a thunderous noise. I peered inside and asked the pilot:

"Does the noise bother you?"

He said, "No I can stand it. But tell them to be careful when they break through on the other side—my leg is broken, you know."

But the American boys worked faster than we believed possible. They tore their fingers on the jagged edges of the metal; they broke strong aluminum ribs with one small crowbar and lot of human strength. Soon they had a hole big enough so that I could set my head and shoulders inside the cockpit.

Somebody handed me a canteen of water and I shoved it through the hole to the pilot. He drank avidly. When he put the canteen down he set it on his bare chest.

No Armistice
Yet, Russians
Tell Romania

BY RICHARD KASISCHKE
London, Friday, Aug. 25. (P)—Russia called upon Romania today to send her armies against the Germans "hand in hand with the Red army for the liberation of Romania" and fixed this as the price of an armistice with the Allies.

In the first official reply from an Allied government to Romania's announced decision to accept Allied peace terms, the Soviet government said that if the Romanian troops stopped fighting the Russians and turned on the Germans, "or against the Hungarians for the liberation of Transylvania," then the Red army "will not disarm them, will keep completely intact for them their entire equipment, and help them in this honorable duty."

Russia disavowed entirely any desire to acquire Romanian territory in the statement, issued by the peoples' commissariat for foreign affairs and broadcast by the Moscow radio.

The statement, recorded by the Soviet monitor, contained no direct reference to the proclamation by King Mihai of Romania on Wednesday, but it answered the youthful monarch plainly by declaring:

"The assistance of the Romanian troops to the Red army troops in the task of liquidating the German troops is the only means of speedy discontinuation of military operations on Romanian territory, and of the conclusion of an armistice between Romania and the coalition of the Allies."

In effect this meant that, despite King Mihai's proclamation, a state of war continues to exist between Romania and Russia, Great Britain and the United States.

BOMBS SHOWER
UPON NAZILAND

Industrial Targets And Escape Ports Hit By
5,000 Planes

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 24. (P)—Five thousand Allied warplanes—more than half of them heavy bombers—struck from Britain and Italy today against German oil, aircraft and industrial targets from the Baltic to the Balkans and smashed naval and merchant vessels the enemy hoped to use in evacuating his western ports.

An estimated 8,000 tons of exploding steel poured down on at least 21 objectives stretching from the great Baltic port of Kiel on through Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia and French and Dutch ports as good weather over central Europe released the heavyweights which had been grounded five days.

Twenty-five bombers and five fighters of the British-based Eighth U. S. air force failed to return, but two of the bombers were known to have landed safely in Sweden. Reports of the Mediterranean losses were not immediately available.

Most of the 25 British-based bombers which went down were lost to heavy flak, although some formations encountered lighter opposition. Escorting fighters shot down 10 German planes and bomber gunners accounted for two others. Fighters destroyed 14 Nazi planes on the ground.

Heavy GI Voting
Expected In Fall

BY EDWARD CREAGH
New York, Aug. 24. (P)—If the admittedly conservative estimates of most state election officials are correct, approximately nine per cent of the votes in the November election will be cast by men and women in the armed forces.

An Associated Press survey determined that some 2,000,000 applications for absentee ballots have been received from battlefronts, ships and training camps, with thousands of others engulfed employees of nearly all the 48 states.

Estimates of the number of GI votes to be cast in each state indicated a nationwide total of at least 4,000,000 although some estimates would add up to a higher figure. Other estimates of the number of service voters included Michigan, 150,000.

UNDER SIGHTS OF
U. S. ARTILLERY

BY WILLIAM F. BONI

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Friday, Aug. 25. (P)—American troops and a French armored division, meeting heavy German artillery resistance, battled in and near the Paris suburbs early today in their drive to join patriots fighting the enemy in the streets for complete liberation of their capital.

A dispatch from Edward D. Ball, Associated Press correspondent with the Allies near Paris, said one column of Brig. Gen. Jacques Le Clerc's French armor had driven a wedge into German-held territory from the west and another from the south had advanced to within nine miles of Elbeuf, Seine river ferrying point 25 miles from the mouth, where the Germans shipped the bulk of their men and armor across, fell to a dazzling 25-mile American advance, and the enemy's main port of Rouen, 10 miles north, was believed under the sights of U. S. artillerymen.

Canadians streaming across the Touques swung on as much as 11 miles east and were nearing the mouth of the Seine for a junction with the Americans which will explode one more battle of annihilation before the last German is wiped out west of the big river.

Far to the south the Americans plugged the last hole in the Orleans gap south of Paris with the capture of Montargis, bypassed in the attack on Sens. Montargis lies about halfway between Orleans and Sens and controls most roads running through the gap.

LID BLOWS OFF
IN WPB BATTLE

Executive Vice Chairman
Quits, Claims Attacks
By Donald Nelson

BY STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, Aug. 24. (P)—The lid blew off a bitter row in the War Production Board today when Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman, resigned and charged that he was the victim of "unfair attacks and criticisms" by aides of Chairman Donald M. Nelson.

Wilson, former president of General Electric Company, accused Nelson's personal assistants of inspiring stories that he was acting as spokesman for big business and opposing plans for reconverting the industry to a peacetime basis.

"The dissension within the organization does harm to the war production effort and, therefore, to the country," Wilson wrote President Roosevelt. "I am unwilling to be a party to such a controversy."

The resignation was accepted with expressions of regret by the president, who said he was "aware of some dissension" within WPB, key agency in charge of the country's mammoth output of war materials.

The development confronted Nelson with one of the most serious crises in WPB history. Just as he was preparing to depart on an economic mission to China at the behest of Mr. Roosevelt.

Coal Miners Return

Shenandoah, Pa., Aug. 24. (P)—Four thousand anthracite miners involved in a seven-week strike that closed collieries of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, voted tonight to resume work tomorrow morning in the mines which were seized yesterday by the federal government.

The back-to-work action was taken upon recommendation of the officers and mine committee of Maple Hill colliery, first to walk out. It was ratified at separate meetings of the Knickerbocker, St. Nicholas and Mahanoy City collieries, accounting for all engaged in the strike.

Waterspouts Seen
On Lake Michigan

Milwaukee, Aug. 24. (P)—Huge waterspouts rising to estimated heights of 1,500 to 2,000 feet were seen in Lake Michigan today between Milwaukee and Chicago, by aviators and coastal observers. It was reported by Thomas L. Long, meteorologist at Billy Mitchell air field.

Long said the normal height of waterspouts is 250 to 300 feet. One pilot described the spouts as crayfish columns of moisture rising from the surface of the lake to clouds. A continental polar air mass considerably colder than water and surface temperatures was probably responsible, Long said.

Lansing, Aug. 24. (P)—The department of state warned today that there are still 322,484 Michigan motorists who have not obtained full year plates, although the deadline for expiration of half-year license plates is seven days away. It said not more than 70,000 have been sold in the past two weeks.

Mop-Up Battle
Rages In Paris

BY JAMES M. LONG
Paris, These columns met fierce German artillery fire. Allied field guns moved up to engage the enemy batteries.

(The Paris radio, now in the hands of the FFI, said in a broadcast recorded by CBS that troops of Le Clerc, "passing through Pont de Sevres, have entered Paris.")

(The radio De La Nation Française broadcast that some of Le Clerc's fighters along with some Americans had reached Paris and that the bulk was expected to reach the capital with Gen. Charles De Gaulle sometime Friday. The broadcast, recorded by NBC, said preparations already were being made for De Gaulle's triumphal entry.)

A Free French broadcast early today said German guns were violently bombarding sections of Paris. One section being shelled, the radio said, was the fifteenth district lying opposite suburban Clamart, where it placed advancing French and American forces.

The French radio also broadcast an "urgent appeal for help," declaring the townhall in the 11th district was being attacked by Germans and that patriots were running out of ammunition. This district lies in the east of Paris and includes the place De La Republique, where barracks of the Republican guard were situated.

Axis Resistance Drops
Off Near Florence;
City Shelled

BY GEORGE TUCKER
Rome, Aug. 24. (P)—Taking quick advantage of lessening enemy resistance in the upper Arno valley southeast of Florence, British and Indian troops have advanced and captured several important points including Mt. Forceto, it was announced today.

Polish and Italian troops in the Adriatic sector made limited gains and established firm positions on the south bank of the Metauro river 12 miles inland from the Adriatic coast. German losses were reported high in that sector, where 800 prisoners had been taken by the Poles in the past ten days.

Nazi patrols were active in the area immediately north of Florence and enemy artillery dropped many shells "indiscriminately" into the central and southern portions of the art city during the day headquarters said. Allied troops won possession of the city last Tuesday.

The front from Florence to the Tyrrhenian Sea remained quiet. (The United Nations radio at Algiers reported General Sir Harold Alexander Allied commander in Italy, had called upon Italian patriots to attack a "considerable number" of Nazi troops who had been observed escaping into northern Italy from the battle zone of southern France.)

GERMAN RHINEADVANCES ACROSS
FRANCE TO BE LINKED SOON

BY NOLAN NORGAARD

Rome, Aug. 24. (P)—A highly mobile American task force of tanks, motorized infantry and artillery sped northward beyond Grenoble today along highways already largely cleared of the enemy by French patriots—racing to join forces with Gen. Eisenhower's Allied armies in northern France.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Geneva said American troops had driven into St. Julien on the Swiss border 70 miles north of Grenoble and little more than 120 miles from the Rhine border of Germany. The report, not immediately confirmed by Allied sources, placed the lightning column some 210 miles inland from the beaches of southern France and only 135 miles from a junction with American armor southeast of Paris.)

Patriots Pave Way
Patriots were reported in full control of the area from Grenoble north to the Swiss border, having cut off whatever German troops remain in southern and central France from communication with Nazi forces in northern Italy.

Except in and near the naval base of Toulon, where a trapped German garrison fought from well prepared positions, the only enemy opposition to the swift movement of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army columns was coming from small and motley assortments of Nazi troops scraped together in some localities.

Thrown piecemeal into the hopeless task of trying to hold back the power of American and French forces, these small units were being destroyed as fast as they appeared. Allied prison pens were filling so rapidly that an accurate count of the captives was impossible. More than 17,000 had been tabulated.

Port Repaired

Allied engineers rushed into the great port of Marseille close on the heels of conquering French troops and began assessing the damage done to harbor installations by bombs and demolitions. Work began immediately to whip France's biggest port back into shape to handle a tremendous flow of Allied reinforcements and supplies.

Re-entry into Marseille was a sweet triumph for the French troops, among whom were many who sailed from the same port to refuge in North Africa when the Nazi panzer hordes crashed against their homeland more than four years ago.

There were unconfirmed reports that the Germans had sunk some vessels in the approaches to Marseille harbor, but it appeared certain that possession of the port would relieve the Allied supply services of the necessity of unloading thousands of tons of supplies on beaches from shallow draft landing craft.

Allied headquarters reported tonight that small pockets of Nazis were holding out in the harbor zone, but these were expected to be erased shortly. Sid Feder, Associated Press correspondent who accompanied French troops into the city, said bullets still were whizzing down streets throughout the city of almost a million population. He said some 500 German troops had been captured there.

PRICE CONTROL WORK OUTLINED

More Vigilance Needed, Board Members Of U. B. Are Told

The necessity of unrelaxed vigilance on the price control program by representatives of the Office of Price Administration was emphasized at the conference of upper peninsula ration board chairman, price panel members, chief clerks and price clerks here yesterday.

James Deegan, national price liaison officer, declared that new sanctions have been granted to local boards by the national office of the OPA, designed to speed the enforcement of the price control act. Local boards now have the authority to collect overcharges from dealers and return the amount of the overcharges to customers or to the treasurer of the United States if the offended customers are unknown.

A. H. Anderson, regional price executive, of Cleveland, described the work of the price division from the regional board level and emphasized the importance of the price control act as the most effective means to prevent inflation.

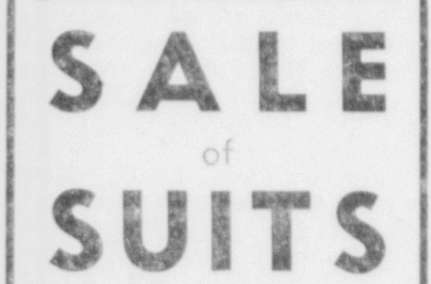

Harry Culver, district price executive, reported that added pressure against price control are being applied now because of the swift movement of the war to final victory for the Allies, and declared that price panel members must be vigilant.

The need for more OPA volunteers in the local ration boards was the subject of a discussion during a question and answer period. It was explained that the rationing program absorbs most of the time of the salaried clerks, and that insufficient attention has been given to the price control program as a result. Every board in the peninsula requires more volunteer workers to make the price control program more effective. It was pointed out.

Others who spoke at the conference were Lawrence L. Farrell, district director; Leo Vinje, food price specialist; Arne Ervasy, district liaison officer; Dan Vaughan, district price liaison officer; and Lou Gregory, acting enforcement attorney.

SEINE RIVER TRAP CLOSED BY AMERICANS

(Continued from Page One) pressed patriots liberate Paris apparently did not rob the Allied drive of any of its steam, although it was felt at headquarters that these forces could have been better employed elsewhere, since Paris' fall was a foregone conclusion anyway.

British On Move The swift American and Canadian advances reduced by half the area of the Seine held by the Germans only yesterday. Inland the British were on the move. Other American forces hammering up from the south had linked up with the British, and the Germans were squeezed into a pocket no more than 10 miles deep and 35 miles wide, about half the area they held south of the Seine yesterday.

Highways of pursuit were jammed with Allied vehicles, the great advance was on, the enemy's Seine base of Rouen was within range of American artillery, and the end of another big battle in the complete liberation of France was in sight.

The great port of Le Havre across the Seine estuary was in an untenable position. A big fleet of enemy light service warships and other vessels was seen putting to sea and waiting Allied warplanes pounced upon it, sinking an undetermined number of ships.

The Germans were holding out stubbornly northeast of their fallen communications center of Lisieux, but with the Americans deep behind their Risle river line—last stand before the Seine—it appeared the German command had written these rearguards off.

Main Battle Over Reports from the British front indicated the bulk of the men and armor of the Seventh army, with the reinforcements from the 15th, had got across the river during the recent days of bad weather, and the final bag would not be large.

All night long these crossings were under attack by British Mosquito planes and other night-flying craft, and undetermined numbers of boats and barges were destroyed. Bad weather hampered operations.

Without waiting for this battle to end, hard-riding American forces hammered out two more bridgeheads across the Seine at Fontainebleau, 35 miles southeast of Paris, and pushed toward the German border—some 150 miles away along a 25-mile front. Behind them all the area south of Paris to the Spanish border now was considered "Allied" and it was only a question of time until railroads holding out in ports and cities were liquidated.

The Americans armored drive 15 miles south of Sens was nearing the road center of Troyes, 20 miles east of last reported positions. Troyes controls most of the enemy's routes still open to southern France.

Supreme headquarters remained silent on the Mantes bridgehead across the Seine northwest of Paris, where American forces were in position to drive on the German coast or cut behind the Germans coming out of the Seine loop battlefield.

While popular interest centered on the struggle in Paris, the operations here, south of the Seine and southeast of Paris, of far greater strategic consequences and were hastening the downfall of German power in France.

While the Germans refused to budge from high ground east of Lisieux, Canadian forces on the south pushed ahead swiftly, captured Thiberville, 10 miles east of Lisieux, and St. Aubin-de-Scellon, two miles north.

Ragweed Pollen Count Is Taken

The Escanaba conservation department headquarters is cooperating in the taking of the ragweed pollen count now being conducted by the Michigan College of Mining and Technology in the direction of U. J. Noblet, dean of the forestry school.

Dan Raess, district supervisor, received the following report on the last count from Mr. Noblet: "Your station count for the week of July 31 to Aug. 6 inclusive was zero ragweed pollen grains per cubic yard of air for 24 hours over the 7-day period."

Carbon melts at 3,500 degrees centigrade.

With The AEF Perkins

Kenneth L. Dixon

WITH THE AEF IN SOUTH-ERN FRANCE (delayed) (P)—The middle-aged Frenchman in the tiny village was exuberant about the accuracy of the Allied airforce. He drew a map in the sand showing how the village had been surrounded by German anti-aircraft batteries and other defensive strongpoints. Then, one by one, he marked out these strongpoints, showing how bombers had eliminated them.

Climaxing the show, he stood up and gestured toward the houses in the village, saying in French: "They hit every one of those targets all around the town, without touching a single village roof. Magnificent!"

Eying the sand map Carleton (Bill) Kent, Chicago Times reporter, commented that the villagers seemed to know quite a bit about the military situation. The Frenchman immediately replied that he had served in the last war, and with the American army. Reporters and soldiers gathering around seemed skeptical, so the Frenchman grinned and offered conclusive proof.

Cupping an imaginary pair of dice in his hand, he shook them vigorously, meanwhile intoning the crashshooters' old, familiar plea: "Come on, baby! Come on seven! Hot damn! Two straight passes!"

In an effort to get ashore early and be on hand to aid reporters, some airforce public relations officials arrived by somewhat unorthodox methods.

Falling by a minute in his attempt to make connections with airforce units coming by sea, Maj. Jay Vessels, former Associated Press staff man in Minneapolis, commandeered a small boat back in the Italian Bay when part of the invasion armada sailed. All through the night he put-patted from ship to ship trying to get aboard. None would take him since he had only airforce credentials and no official boarding order. Meanwhile, suspicious harbor patrols fired at him a couple of times.

Finally, one ship's officers agreed to let him come aboard. In the background he heard some soldier saying something like: "If the sucker wants to come with us let him come," but he didn't give it much thought at the moment. He understood later when he realized his fellow passengers were Third Division infantrymen.

Maj. Vessels, an airforce public relations officer, has been on almost every invasion in this theater but he admits he never was more unhappy than when he climbed over the side of the troopship and scrambled ashore in South France with the second wave of infantry!

Even rougher was the experience of Lt. Col. Tex McCreary, former New York Mirror editorial writer and now an airforce public relations officer. Tex jumped with paratroopers, carrying more than 50 pounds of extra baggage, including photographic and reporting equipment.

What got Tex into trouble was not the equipment he carried but the additional stuff he strapped to his motorcycle. After the paratroopers jumped he had pushed out the motorcycle on a separate parachute and had gone back to the breakaway cord to jump himself.

That required about 15 seconds—sufficient time to cause him to land several thousand yards away from the main body of paratroopers. As a result, he ran into trouble immediately, got mixed up in several small-arms fights, was pinned down by machine gunners and reportedly wound up capturing several prisoners. He didn't find the motorcycle and extra equipment until three days later.

Grenoble made "further advances."

Some 200 Germans were taken prisoner when the little island of Porquerolles outside Toulon harbor surrendered after being subjected to a fierce bombardment by an American heavy cruiser.

Striking 25 miles northwest of Marseille toward the Rhone valley, an American column captured the town of Salon, but 20 miles from the mouth of the broad passage-way to northern France. Headquarters said French troops also were driving westward into the Rhone valley.

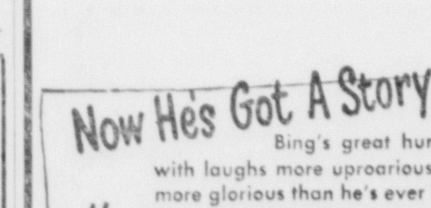

American units in the Durance valley were reported only 25 miles from Avignon, important Rhone valley town. The Allied advance had the advantage of ideal weather. By noon yesterday it was estimated that between 6,000 and 8,000 square miles of southern France had been liberated.

REDS PUSH ON AS ROMANIANS GIVE UP FIGHT

Carpathian Mountain wall, captured the rail city of Roman, and plunged on 26 miles to take Bacau, 37 miles northwest of conquered Barlad. The second order of the day telling of these seizures also said that Husi, a stronghold 36 miles northeast of Barlad, had been swept up.

The Russians now control most of the German "escape" railways leading out of northern Romania, and at Barlad are only 42 miles from Focsani, a stronghold in the "Galati Gap" line protecting central Romania. At Focsani the trunk railway curves westward around the Carpathian Mountains on its way to Ploesti and the capital at Bucharest.

BY RICHARD KASISCHKE

London, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Germans, trying to salvage what can be captured from Romania, promptly announced today the vague formation of a puppet regime opposing King Mihai's new pro-Allied government, appealed for Romanians to remain in the war on the Axis side, and said that rioting had broken out in the Balkan nation.

The Swiss radio broadcast a dispatch dated Bucharest saying that Romanian troops "started a march into Transylvania" last night, "referring to Mihai's announced intention of recovering, with Allied help, that part of pre-war Romania awarded to Hungary by the Germans in the 1940 Vienna conference."

(A state of siege has been proclaimed in Bucharest, according to an article in the Swiss newspaper La Suisse, reported to the office of war information.)

(A Romanian domestic broadcast reported by the federal communications commission said that Gen. Tedorescu, Bucharest military commander, had ordered an 8 p. m. to 5 a. m. curfew, abolished concentration camps, and granted amnesty to many political prisoners.)

With German military and political fortunes at a new low, Berlin did not break the news of Romania's defection from the Axis until mid-afternoon when the German news agency, DNB, told of the Balkan nation's acceptance of armistice terms offered by Russia, the United States and Britain.

FIXED MARK-UP RULES CHANGED

Governs Food Prices At Wholesale And Retail

Several changes in the fixed mark-up regulations governing food prices at wholesale and retail were announced by the Office of Price Administration.

One of the changes enables wholesalers and retailers who, under certain conditions, have made contracts prior to April 29, 1944, to import pineapple (except Puerto Rican and Hawaiian) to carry out these contracts on application to OPA.

The new amendments, effective August 26, 1944, also contain a provision designed to compensate for storage charges on frozen fruits, berries, vegetables and mixtures. An addition three-fourths of a cent a pound for quick-frozen items and one-fourth of a cent a pound for cold-packed items is allowed to enable wholesalers and retailers to reflect average storage costs. The differential for cold-packed and quick-frozen items represents the different lengths of time these items are expected to be in storage.

At the same time the regulations are changed to require the pricing of cold-packed and quick-frozen items as separate items, in recognition of the differential in the storage factor.

LAKE SUPERIOR HISTORY TOLD

Escanaba Given Passing Mention In Book By Grace Lee Nute

Lake Superior, by Dr. Grace Lee Nute, another of the American Lakes Series, was recently published by Boobs-Merrill company, Indianapolis.

It is hard to speak of or write about Lake Superior without superlatives. Superior is the world's largest freshwater body, 400 miles of unbroken sea from Sault Ste. Marie to Duluth. Lake Victoria Nyanza in Africa is said to be almost as large, and so is Lake Tchad, but they are very shallow and their waters are impure, whereas Superior's are the sweetest in the world.

The shores of Lake Superior are different, lying as they do in the western part of the great Laurentian Shield which covers large parts of Canada. Around the lake are immense deposits of iron and copper, and lesser showings of gold, silver and other minerals, to say nothing of endless successions of bold shores, cliffs, mountains, forests and waterfalls.

Tales of Early Days

Miss Nute begins at the beginning with the story of early settlement, the search for furs, and the missionary efforts of the first Roman Catholic and Protestant clergy. The author has brought out a surprising amount of new information about the latter missionaries and their sufferings and triumphs in the early days of the Upper Peninsula—a great amount of data much of which has not been in book print up to now.

Escanaba gets passing mention in the book, as the iron ore shipping port for the Menominee range. The fact isn't mentioned that this city is handling great quantities of Marquette range ore this year, a condition which may or may not be temporary. Just now, at any rate, as was the case years ago, Escanaba is a Marquette range port, too, and shipmen make time in this emergency with their cargoes to southern Lake Michigan furnaces, at least, by trans-shipping their ore from here.

Sault Ste. Marie gets a full chapter in "Lake Superior," and there is much new information about ports and harbors all the way around the lake. Another chapter is devoted to the wild scenery of Superior's north shore, which is relatively close to us, but still so far away and so difficult to reach that it is known to very few residents of the Upper Peninsula.

Hiawatha and Paul Bunyan

The folklore of this region gets good treatment, especially the Indian legends which helped Longfellow to write the Song of Hiawatha. There is only a little copy about Paul Bunyan, surely, but other northern legends. These two heroes are the foundation of the only American epics likely to endure, and it is a rather singular fact that both have an Upper Peninsula background. In fact the Tahquamenon river country may be said to have been the storied dwelling place of both. Longfellow tells how Hiawatha built his first birch bark canoe on the banks of the Tahquamenon, and every lumberjack knows that Paul Bunyan was born and lived as youth in the neighborhood of Tahquamenon Falls.

The book is one of five in the series. "Lake Huron" came out first, and the two lower lakes are to be the subjects of later books. Some one ought to write the story of Lake St. Clair, even if it isn't as big as Superior or Michigan.

Dr. Nute is curator of manuscripts, Minnesota Historical Society, and professor of history at Hamline University. She has been best known up to this time as the writer of "Caesars of the Wilderness," the story of Radisson and Groselliers, who ranged this country in the 17th century and were responsible for the founding of the famous Hudson's Bay company. Her reputation will be enhanced, no doubt, by this fine volume.

FIGHT BRUSH FIRE—Cooperating with the city of Escanaba in fighting a stubborn brush and grass fire that has swept over 50 acres of land west of the U. P. state fair grounds, the Michigan conservation department has loaned men and equipment to fight the blaze, Augustus Meyers,

Fire Fighters Are Battling 50-Acre Brush Fire Here

Throwing additional men and equipment into the fight yesterday against a stubbornly burning brush and grass fire that has already swept over 50 acres of the outer city limits west of the U. P. state fair grounds, Escanaba firemen, assisted by coast guardsmen and conservation department men and equipment ringed the fire with plowed furrows to prevent its spreading further.

The fire is entirely within the city limits. It is bordered on the east by Willow creek, on the south by the North Western railroad tracks and on the north by the ski hill road.

Believed to have been started by boys playing with fire at a shack they had built, the fire started about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Whipped by a high north wind it burned over about 40 acres before it was brought under control Wednesday evening. During the night it burned slowly over an additional 10 acres.

More equipment was rushed into the battle against the fire yesterday. City fire trucks and crews under the direction of Fire Chief Arvid Johnson, a city bulldozer and power shovel, and a tractor and plow of the state conservation department were used to encircle the area with a fire break.

At the request of the city the conservation department assigned Conservation Officer Clarence "Duke" Lienna of Stephenson to supervise the fire fighting operations. There is no large timber on the area. It is covered with brush and deep grass which made efforts to combat the fire particularly difficult. A pall of smoke covered the city Wednesday night but lifted yesterday morning with a freshening wind, and diminished as the fire burned itself out.

At the height of the blaze fire fighters reported seeing deer and one bear fleeing the fire area, escaping toward the ski park area to the west.

spend a few weeks.

Restaurant Price For Milk Frozen

Ceiling prices for milk sold by establishments subject to the new restaurant regulation are frozen at the lawful ceiling prices in effect during the week of July 23-29, the Office of Price Administration announced.

Previously they had been frozen at the lawful ceiling prices in effect during the week of June 13-

24, 1944. The change in date was made in order to eliminate any inequities that might have resulted from using the earlier date since certain milk adjustment orders have been issued since that date.

This action was taken, OPA explained, to provide a uniform method of price control for milk sold by restaurants for immediate consumption. Until the effective date of the new restaurant regulation, July 31, methods of control varied among the regions. In some places ceilings were established by regional milk orders and in others by regional or district restaurant "freeze" regulations.

Must Delay Verdict

WHILE President Roosevelt has issued declarations, that ordering Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board, to undertake a special mission to China when that official is battling the War and Navy departments, in order to start reconversion of American industry to peace time production, is not "a kick in the teeth" a lot of people in the nation will watch that situation closely.

The one man in the nation on whose shoulders, more than any other, rested the responsibility for converting American industry into the greatest war producing agency in all the history of the world and whose steady hand made possible the certainty of final victory for the Allied cause, is ready to start the just as important reconversion of American machinery to badly needed civilian production.

His moves in that direction have brought angry protests from the brass hats of the Army and Navy departments, in spite of their admissions that war supplies in most materials are now piled up in greater quantities than can possibly be used, no matter how long the war may continue. It is while this battle, so important to the workers and the people of America, is at its height that the one truly indispensable man in America, is ordered by the president to leave the country and undertake a mission to China.

Naturally the president cannot divulge the necessity for this urgent order and the people of the nation must accept the chief executive's word, that no other man is available to perform a highly necessary task, the fact that the now politically dead Vice President Henry Wallace, returned but a few weeks ago from a similar mission, does not allay the fears of a lot of people in America.

Donald Nelson is too big and too great a man to be made a political scapegoat. The people of America must delay their verdict until all the facts in the matter can be made public.

Ford Expands Holdings

JUST why Henry Ford acquired the Jackson and Tindie company holdings at Munising is as much a puzzle to Upper Peninsula lumbermen as the acquisition of the Big Bay property last year.

The Big Bay mill had been operated by different concerns over a period of years with no real success. The last operator, the Kerry & Hanson company, suspended operations last summer, giving the War Labor Board's wage ruling and OPA price regulations as the reason for the shutdown. A few weeks later, Henry Ford, sojourning for the summer at the Huron Mountain club near Big Bay, visited the townsite and announced he had purchased it, stock, and barrel. Work of renovating the Big Bay village buildings and mill was begun soon afterward, and in two interviews with newspaper writers, the motor magnate intimated that Big Bay would probably be used for the manufacture of wood plastics after the war.

Quite naturally, there will be much speculation as to what Ford plans to do at Munising. The Jackson and Tindie company sawmill has been inactive for several years and the machinery was regarded as being in a rundown condition. However, the equipment is being dismantled, and being shipped out, ostensibly for repairs. The Ford company has timber holdings in the Rumely area, west of Munising, and it is probable that it is planned to saw the logs at Munising, instead of sending them to the Ford plants at L'Anse, Iron Mountain and elsewhere.

Just what the specific plans are appear to be Henry Ford's own secret, but quite likely the new development will prove to be of considerable economic benefit to Munising.

East Texas Timber

WORK has begun on the construction of a charcoal iron furnace and chemical plant at Rusk, Tex., to utilize the open pit iron ore and hardwood timber resources of the East Texas region. Portions of the Wells plant equipment, incidentally, will be used for the building of the new industry at Rusk.

According to a survey made by the Texas Forest Service, there is enough timber in proximity of Rusk to keep the plant going for 90 years, but it is hoped by Texan conservationists that operations may be extended far beyond that time by carrying out a program of selective cutting and reforestation.

Commenting upon the need for conservation of East Texas timber resources, the Austin, Tex., Dirt-Farmer Stockman said recently:

"There are two ways of looking at such magnificent timber resources as those of East Texas. From one viewpoint they are state assets; from another, national assets. A good argument can be made for either conclusion, because there is truth in both. The East Texas forests are of the highest importance to the people of this state. Rightly developed and cared for they will go far toward meeting the needs of Texas people for lumber for many, many years. Of course they will also furnish part of the lumber supply of many other states. Upward of 12 million acres in East Texas can be better used in growing timber for commercial use than for any other purpose. If the state neglects the protection of this valuable resource we can be sure that the national interest in it will be asserted in the near future."

County Reform

WISCONSIN is taking the same interest in the need for county government reform that has been displayed in Michigan in recent months, for the problems created by a constitution adopted in the Bodger state a century ago are similar to those that are in evidence here.

The next Wisconsin legislature will be asked to adopt a resolution, which put to a vote of the people a proposal to amend the state constitution. The amendment proposal provides that the 71 Wisconsin counties could choose one of a number of forms of county government to suit their varying needs. Since 1844, all Wisconsin counties have had a uniform system.

The Milwaukee Journal, commenting editorially on this subject, stated recently:

"It long has been obvious that uniformity of government in 71 counties was wrong almost from the beginning. In the early days southern counties rapidly became agricultural; people in northern counties largely engaged in logging. So it was unwise to compel Florence and Waukesha counties, for instance, to have the same kind of local government.

"Today some counties are industrial in nature and metropolitan in the scope of their problems; others, intensively agricultural; yet others, recreational, or devoted to forest activities.

"The best type of local government to meet its special needs should be permitted in every county, and the voters can see that it is by sending the right men to the legislature."

YOUTH CENTER AT CROSSROADS

(Sault Ste. Marie News)

Sault Ste. Marie's Youth Center program is at the crossroads.

It has practically exhausted its original "gift" of $5,500 from service clubs and organizations. It cannot expect any assistance from the Chippewa County Community War chest since that organization's budget has been completed and announced.

Unless new revenue is tapped the Youth Center will cease to exist.

The question facing the citizens of Sault Ste. Marie is whether the Youth Center is worthwhile. If it is, then it merits support, whatever the source may be. If it is not worthwhile it should be abandoned.

Two service clubs have gone on record as favoring "adoption" of the Youth Center program by the City of Sault Ste. Marie itself within a proposed Department of Public Recreation financed by city funds.

It appears to us that the splendid program of the Youth Center, radiating as it does to all parts of the city and all types of constructive, worthwhile activity has made definite contributions to the physical, mental and moral welfare of the children of Sault Ste. Marie. These are factors to be considered in the development of upright citizens and assuredly upright citizens are as desirable assets as sewers, as water systems, as streets, pavements, garbage collection, police department and fire departments.

If the citizens through their city government are willing to subsidize through taxes, sewers, water departments, police force and all other numerous functions as contributing to the welfare of the city generally, should they not also be willing to contribute to and subsidize a better future for future citizens?

If the youth center is contributing to the moral, physical and intellectual welfare of our future citizens, it is also contributing to a grander, better and more worthwhile city for all of us. The evidence is that the Youth Center is doing just that. In that case there is only one thing to do, continue the Youth Center even if it means upkeep through taxpayers' money.

AMONG THE WARTIME 'RATS'

(Milwaukee Journal)

John Brown, president of Brown Brothers Brass Foundry & Electroplating Co. of Stamford, Conn., is evidently one of those diehards who do not know the world has changed.

The industrial-labor relations in Mr. Brown's plant did not develop in the way he wished. He found that he would have to submit to laws passed by congress governing this relationship. So he announced he would retire from business, offer the plant for sale, or close it if he could not sell.

This plant is engaged in 100 per cent war production. Its products are vital to the navy, which wants it to continue operation. Mr. Brown, by his announced purpose, is rattling on our boys on the battlefield just as any group of workers rats on the mwmen it strikes.

The verb "rat" means to run out on somebody, and that is just what Employer Brown is doing. Because he cannot have his way, he is running out on the nation.

The objection to some people losing sleep is that they try to find it at the office.

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

Governor Dewey has hit several birds with the stone he tossed at the President's foreign policy plans, and his action deserves a high rating in tactics.

Moley

His warning has, in the first place, compelled President Roosevelt to take note of him and to keep him informed of matters in preliminary peace arrangements. Up to the time Dewey raised his voice, President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull were proceeding much as President Wilson did in 1918 and 1919. They were treating the highly significant Dumbarton Oaks discussions as a private concern, ignoring the fact that an election is coming along at which Mr. Dewey may be selected to take over all their labors. Mr. Dewey has effectively put them on notice in that regard.

—HAS POSTWAR PLANS—

Second, Mr. Dewey has placed himself before the country as a person who not only is aware of the significance of post-war plans, but as one who is thoroughly familiar with current developments. This will go a long way toward answering the partisan argument, already adopted as the trump card of the Democrats, that only Mr. Roosevelt can be trusted to represent us at the peace-table because only Mr. Roosevelt knows what has been cooking in our diplomacy. If Democrats raise that argument now, the Republican answer can be that Mr. Hull promised to tell Mr. Dewey everything he knew and that Mr. Dewey must therefore know everything that Mr. Roosevelt knows—unless Mr. Roosevelt knows something that Mr. Hull doesn't know, which Democrats might not want to admit.

The incident, moreover, has given Mr. Dewey the opportunity to show his extraordinary equipment to deal with foreign policy. Quite properly, he chose John Foster Dulles to represent him in conferences with Mr. Hull. Mr. Dulles bears the same relation to Mr. Dewey that Mr. Hull bears to Mr. Roosevelt. He is his unofficial Secretary of State and, if Mr. Dewey is elected, he will probably be his official Secretary of State.

—DULLES IS COMPETENT—

The competence of Mr. Dulles in foreign affairs is of the first order. No American Secretary of State since John Hay has such a long and distinguished record as an international lawyer as has Mr. Dulles. He grew up in the household of a great diplomat and former Secretary of State, John W. Foster. Grandpa Foster was James G. Blaine's right-hand man in his initiation of the Good-Neighbor Policy in the early '90's and as such, conducted the negotiations with several countries for pioneer reciprocal-trade agreements. Mr. Foster, as Secretary of State, came very close to annexing Hawaii and would have succeeded, except for the Democratic Administration which came into power under Cleveland. Dulles' brilliant career in international law shows how well he learned his grandfather's lessons. He is a bred-in-the-bone diplomat.

The Dewey-Dulles program, which this incident gives Mr. Dewey the opportunity to present, calls for two sorts of peace-keeping machinery after the war. The first would be two councils of the four big powers to police Germany and Japan. The second would be a league of 60-odd large and small nations for permanent purposes. Both would be created immediately after the war, but they would operate independently. This plan ought to satisfy everyone, even Mr. Wilkie, or Mr. Dewey's genuine intention to give practical shape to the promise of the Republican Party.

The girl with the nicest figure these days has it in War Bonds.

Take My Word For it . . . Frank Coiby

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH
Q. A headline reads, "Gandhi's Illness Worsens." What could be worse than worsens, unless it be worse or worstest?

A. The verb worsen, "to cause, make, or become worse," is entirely proper, and is sanctioned by most dictionaries. Also correct, though not frequently heard, are the noun worseness, and the verbal noun worsening.

Q. Are "Cal" and "Col." correct abbreviations for California and Colorado?

A. Yes. But since "Cal." and "Col." in the average handwriting, cannot be told apart, I feel sure that the Post Office Department will bless your name if you will use the abbreviations "Calif." and "Colo."

Q. I am told "free gratis" is not correct. Why?

A. The phrase is redundant, for "free" and "gratis" have the same meaning. Since gratis smacks of gay nineties elegance, why use it at all? Better: "free; without cost; for nothing."

Q. Please distinguish between character-reputation and publicity-notoriety.

A. Character and reputation are sometimes interchangeable. Strictly speaking, character designates one's moral qualities. Reputation designates the degree of esteem in which one is held by others. Hence, a man of good character may have a bad reputation, and vice versa.

Publicity is that which is made public, as advertising, information with news value. The word is generally used with a favorable connotation. Notoriety implies an unsavory reputation, as "His notoriety is the result of his dishonest dealings."

THE PRICE OF LAND—How much the farmer and prospective farmer has to pay for land is a matter of concern to the whole nation. If he pays an inflated price and is unable to keep up the payments in the years to come the whole farm economic structure can again become as shaky as it was back in the 1930-32 period—when foreclosures shot upward and there were threats of a nation-wide farm strike.

Dunathan

What most people don't know, including some of the farmers caught in the last squeeze, is that much of their trouble came about as result of the inflated land prices prevailing during World War I. Now land prices are skyrocketing again, and concern is being expressed through out the state and the nation that history will repeat itself unless land prices are anchored at a reasonable figure.

The upward price trend was to be expected. More people are buying farms today than ever before.

Tenants are stepping into farm ownership. Owners are rounding out their farms or are buying better farms. Farms are being bought for sons and daughters, so they may have homes of their own on the land. War workers are buying farms to return to when the war is over. City people are buying farms for investments, or as homes to retire to in their later years.

And some farms, regrettably, are being bought by speculators, who are not interested in farming or in living on a farm, but only in the profit that can be made by selling the land for more than they paid for it.

YOU SHOULD KNOW—So the buyer will beware in these days of inflated land prices, Michigan State College is making a survey to bring the whole story to public attention. If the public insists on toppling the farm economic structure into the ash can, the college authorities believe it should be done only after all of the danger signals have been posted.

K. T. Wright of the farm management department of Michigan State College, and George Hurrell, extension specialist in land use, have recently conducted samplings of land prices in Delta and Iron counties. These samplings will be included with data from other Michigan counties to present a picture of the farm land price trend.

In Delta county in October there will be a survey of job opportunities conducted in Delta county, to determine what the prospects are for employment in rural areas. This survey dovetails with the price trend for farm lands—since what employment will there be on a bankrupt farm in the postwar period?

THE FOREWARNING—Farmers who go into debt at this time of rising prices, expecting to pay off mortgages and debts on the basis of today's high commodity prices are sure to be disillusioned—and perhaps impoverished.

Debts and mortgage at today's inflated price level means a risk of losing everything the farmer has gained so far. That happened to thousands of farmers after the first world war.

E. A. Wenner, Delta county agricultural agent, in a recent news letter to farmers, warned:

"If there ever was a time when farm people as well as others should get out of debt, that time is now. Some of you have Federal Land Bank loans, straight bank loans and maybe a mortgage from a friend, perhaps you owe on an automobile, washing machine or livestock.

"I honestly believe that every extra nickel that you can lay your hands on should be applied toward any debt that you owe. The prices for agricultural products are not always going to be as high as they are now, and when prices drop back you may be very thankful that you don't owe money on an old debt.

Wenner also warns against future farm debts, and advises strongly in the purchase of war bonds as a lay-away plan to purchase what you may want in the future.

HISTORY REPEATING—When in Escanaba recently K. T. Wright of Michigan State College, pored over recorded transfers of farm lands in this county, while at the same time he cited the following figures the land price survey has revealed in Michigan and the nation:

1.—Michigan farm land prices in March, 1944, were 44 per cent higher than three years ago. This is a more rapid rise than in New York, Iowa, or the United States as an average.

2.—Present land prices in Michigan have been exceeded only in the inflation years of 1919 to 1924.

3.—But contrary to the World War I situation, the farm mortgage debt has been decreasing. A large share of the present purchasers are paying cash.

Wright's suggestions to control the land market in Michigan include:

Credit control—No loans exceeding 50 per cent of the value of the farm.

Taxation—A higher capital gains tax, a high resale tax, a heavy transfer tax, and progressive taxes on farms purchased.

Permit system—Require a permit of each farm purchaser. These to enforce ceilings on land and to prevent influx of absentee owners.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army).

Washington—Only insiders know it, but after the President held his press conference denying he had sent a letter to Wendell Wilkie, Judge Sam Rosenman and Steve Early rushed up to his desk and remonstrated that he had made a bad mistake. They were afraid PDR had rebuffed the man who had gone down the line for him 100 per cent on taxes, foreign policy and the war.

Pearson

Later, the President repeated to some of his Cabinet that he hadn't expected the question at his news conference. Explaining that he wanted to talk to Wilkie about post-war peace plans and foreign policy, not politics, he indicated that he would go ahead with his plans for the talk regardless of what had happened.

The President was quite irked that news about his letter to the former Presidential candidate had leaked out. Only a few people knew the letter existed. The carbon copy was not filed with his regular correspondence, and the first draft of the letter had been written in his own handwriting for Grace Tully, his secretary, to copy. Only two people inside the White House were supposed to know about it.

Despite this, Wilkie began to get queries about the letter two weeks after he received it. The news men making the inquiries cited White House sources, said they had the tip from Presidential secretaries. Wilkie made no comment, never admitted receiving the letter, but he got the impression that the White House wanted the story out.

Therefore, you could have knocked him over with a feather when the President replied to news men last week that he didn't know anything about writing Wilkie a letter.

Immediately after the White House denial appeared in the press, Wilkie's phone began buzzing with Republican friends warning him that Roosevelt would always kick him in the teeth. They urged him to come out for Dewey.

—ARMY DEMOBILIZATION PLAN—

Here is the inside story on White House War Department plans for demobilizing part of the Army after the defeat of Germany. The War Department is planning to release about 2,000,000 men immediately after a German armistice.

Under this plan, the Army will set up a point system for every man in the service, and men with sufficient points will be retired. Here is how the points will be calculated:

1. For each month in the service, every man will receive one point.
2. Each month overseas will count an additional point.
3. For each battle honor, a man will receive four points.
4. The Congressional Medal of Honor or Legion of Merit will count four additional points.
5. Each bronze star denoting service in battle will count four additional points.
6. For every child, a soldier will receive eight points.
7. Married men without children will also receive eight extra points.

There are still several important gaps in this program which the Army and the White House have not yet filled in. There still is no special credit for age. However, it is already decided that, because the Army will have a greater need for air men in the Pacific, a separate system will be set up for discharging Air Corps veterans. Of course, the basic point which everybody wants to know is: "How many points will a man need to get out?" That has not yet been determined.

It has been determined, however, that at the end of the Atlantic war, the Navy does not plan to release any of its men.

It can also be revealed that President Roosevelt is anxious to discharge hardship cases first.

When the President discussed this plan recently with several Senators, they asked him how he planned to handle the problem of policing Germany and other occupied enemy territory after the armistice. He replied that he hoped to do so by using men who have learned to like the Army, plus professional soldiers who were in the Army before the Selective Service program got under way. He also plans to use men who have had no overseas experience and want to volunteer for it now.

LUMBER WILL BE FIREPROOF

Wood Treating Industry Ready For Postwar Business Boom

Chicago, Ill., — Recommendations of the National Fire Protection Association that modern technique be used to fireproof previously inflammable materials to make them acceptable for post-war construction in home and commerce have been met by the nation's treated lumber industry. J. F. Linthicum, president of the American Lumber and Treating Co., declared here.

"Our industry is prepared to meet the accelerated demands for fire-resistant lumber on this basis," Linthicum said, "not only because of its successful use in heavy industrial and military installations in the war, but because of new successes in the basic treatment to attain fireproofing."

The National Fire Protection Association listed 21 recommendations, among them suggestions that cities strengthen their codes to reduce fire hazards, to remove temporary buildings made of inflammable materials, to require more space in reconstructed areas and to extend fire protection service. The association specifically recommended more attention to use of "modern techniques" to eliminate or reduce fire characteristics in materials which heretofore have been unacceptable for fireproof construction.

Linthicum said that his industry has been producing thousands of feet of timber which have been made fire-resistant by pressure treatment with a group of salts known as Minalith. The treating process has so advanced, he said, that now plywood which is normally highly inflammable, may be used for fire-resistant construction. Sulphate and boron salts are used to impregnate the lumber.

News From Men In The Service

Pvt. Gerald Seymour, 21, son of Mrs. Carrie Seymour, 425 South Ninth street, has received a distinguished unit badge in recognition of a unit citation from General Mark W. Clark, commander of the Fifth army in Italy, for outstanding performance of duty in action.

The citation follows:

"The 509th

parachute infantry

battalion is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action.

On 29th February, 1944 near Carano, Italy, their battalion, depleted in strength after many days of continuous combat, received a terrific enemy artillery barrage during early morning hours. An enemy attack was imminent and at dawn a German assault wave advanced toward the paratroopers position. Being considerably outnumbered, the 509th parachute infantry battalion held its fire until the last possible moment. Then every weapon opened fire, cutting huge gaps in the first attacking wave. The enemy faltered in his advance, then surged relentlessly ahead from the sheer pressure of large numbers of troops in the rear. The soldiers of the 509th parachute infantry battalion fought desperately, sustaining retreat, engaging the overwhelming and constantly increasing German force with rifle butts and even fists. Late in the afternoon the German attack was halted. The badly battered but determined paratroopers immediately reorganized in preparation for counter-attack. Outnumbering the paratroopers more than three to one, the enemy had overrun the front line but was later held to a standstill, suffering immense losses in men and equipment. The courageous and determined stand made by officers and men of the 509th parachute infantry battalion resulted in the retention of a vital sector of the beachhead and prevented a dangerous German wedge between two infantry divisions."

Pvt. Seymour entered service Feb. 10, 1943 and received his training at the parachute school, Fort Benning, Ga. He went overseas in September, 1943 and participated in the battle of Sicily before the Italian campaign. He was graduated from the Escanaba high school in 1940.

More than 500 enlisted men and officers, with the outfit since it left the States over two years ago, joined with "newcomers" in celebrating the second anniversary of their group's first mission and first anniversary of their participation in the low-level bombing attack upon the Ploesti oil fields a year ago.

The original men, who have been with this veteran B-24 Liberator group since its inception, have followed its progress through the Egyptian-Libyan, North African, Sicilian and Italian campaigns. Each member of this "Lib" outfit wears the Distinguished Unit Badge, awarded for their organization's participation in the three-top-high Ploesti mission and the Middle East campaign.

ANTI-RAT DRIVE
PLANNED HERE

City Sponsors Campaign;
Scouts To Distribute
Poison Ration

Wholesale extermination of Escanaba's rat population is the objective in an anti-rat campaign which the city will sponsor, and in which Boy Scouts will distribute 1,600 pounds of poison bait ration on one day in early September.

Preliminary plans for the campaign were made yesterday at a meeting in city hall called by City Manager George E. Bean and attended by Mayor Sam Wickman and S. N. Bradford, district Scout executive.

GOODMAN'S DRUG STORE

701 Ludington St.

The Boys Scout will furnish the "manpower" for distribution of the poison, directed by Scout leaders and adult volunteers. The anti-rat drive must be accomplished in one day, with a follow-up in sections of the city where conditions are worst. The one-day drive is necessary because, if the city is taken a section at a time, the rats come to know the poison bait and will refuse to touch it.

Composed of ground meat and fish mixed with red squill poisoning, the bait was purchased by the city from Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, which advised the city in similar rat extermination campaigns in 1940 and 1941.

Residents of Escanaba can assist in the campaign by advising whether rats are prevalent or have been seen in the vicinity of their home or place of business. Residents are asked to telephone, starting today, either City Hall No. 321, or the Chamber of Commerce No. 1100, giving their names and addresses. This information will be helpful in organizing and mapping the campaign, which will be done by Scout Executive Bradford and City Engineer Aronson. The poison will not kill cats and dogs, but it will make them sick. Owners of pets, therefore, should keep them confined for a short time after the anti-rat drive date so the bait will get to the rats—where it will do the most good. Particular attention will be paid to the city's long shore frontage in distribution of the poison bait, because it has been found that old docks, and waterfront buildings, are ideal hiding places for the pests. But no section of the city will be disregarded, for rats rove here and there and city-wide coverage is the only way to make a complete clean-up.

Again this year, as in the past, the license office will be open evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. till the expiration date to accommodate those who are unable to get to the office during the regular hours, Ranguette said. Hess Trip To Britain
Is Fantastic Legend

AP Features
Rudolf Hess, once termed the only man trusted by Hitler, created one of the fantastic legends of the war when he borrowed a Me-110 fighter plane and fled to England on May 10, 1941. Why should Hess, the No. 3 Nazi, Hitler's alter ego and editor of "Mein Kampf," have flown the coop? The Germans said he suffered from "hallucinations," later branded him insane. The British maintained it wasn't desertion; that Hess sincerely hoped to get Britain out of the war so that Hitler could attack Red Russia unmolested from the west. Britain has always felt that when Hess came tumbling down in a parachute to be captured by a farmer with a pitchfork, it gained one of the important prizes of the war. When foreign ships enter American ports, they are boarded and inspected by Coast Guard officers who speak the language of the crew. Posted port regulations are written in 10 different languages.

GAS PRODUCTION HAS INCREASE

Crude Oil Falls Off Despite New Wells, More Drilling

Michigan crude oil production fell off in the first half of 1944, compared with the like period last year, despite increased drilling activity and completion of a larger number of producing wells. Natural gas production increased, however.

Failure to tap important oil reserves which would offset dwindling production in existing fields, and imposition of controls to maintain production this year, ac-ording to the conservation department's geological survey division.

Increased production of natural gas is accounted for by heavier consumption by war industries and householders.

Crude oil production during the first six months of 1944 was 9,444,176 barrels, as compared with 10,565,453 barrels in the like period last year. Natural gas production in the first half of 1944 was 11,408,127,000 cubic feet, as compared with 10,453,671,000 cubic feet through June last year.

Substitute For Cork

To replace the supply of cork now used for lifejackets and life-saving equipment, a substitute having the same properties as cork has been developed of finely ground peanut shells, vegetable glue, sugar, and apple syrup or glycerine.

City Recreation Report Is Issued For Past Month

In a delayed report issued to the city manager for recreational activities during the month of July, the city recreation department yesterday announced the following highlights.

Classified as community service, there were seven parties at the ski lodge which is rented out to responsible groups at a nominal fee of one dollar. Twenty different loan services were recorded. These consisted of equipment for picnics, file material on games or programs of various sorts, public address facilities to civic and fraternal organizations, record playing equipment, and other miscellaneous articles.

Six different organizations made use of the city recreation center as a meeting place, use varying from one to four times during the month by each group. There was one private party at the center. In three cases, equipment rental was made. This is distinguished from straight loan service in that for some equipment and in some individual cases, a nominal fee is assessed for use. One picnic program was directed by the department.

Total recorded participation in all activities was 15,802. Of this number, 5,988 attended the beach 7,348 went to playgrounds, 995 to the city recreation center which is not officially open, 1223 played in the softball and hardball league games, and 248 attended parties at the ski lodge. Attendance is usually recorded on maximum counts for morning, afternoon and evening sessions of any area. Umpires recorded 4,210 spectators at league games.

There were 81 softball league games scheduled and 10 hardball.

There were 8 major, 5 cadet, and 6 midget league teams playing. Four teams played junior hardball. There were about three and a half girls' teams which played occasional games as part of the playground program. A four team horseshoe league played at Royce as part of the program there.

INDIA'S ILLITERACY

India, the land of immense wealth and home of one-fifth of the world's population, with natural resources rivaling those of the United States, is 90 per cent illiterate. Only 39 per cent of its people are well nourished, and 80,000,000 of them are perpetually hungry.

SPREAD EAGLE RESORT SOLD

Two War Plant Workers
From Flint Buy
Property

Iron Mountain—Purchase by Paul and Louis Nelson, both of Flint of the Spread Eagle business conducted for the past 20 years by Mr. and Mrs. Art Chaine, was announced here yesterday by the two brothers, former Spread Eagle residents and for the last 13 years employed as mechanics for Fisher Body.

Consideration of the purchase was not announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaine are retiring from the business—general store, boat-rental and repair, ice-house and other departments—because of ill health, it was said. Both are widely known in the Spread Eagle and adjoining areas through their long association with cottage-owners, renters and others.

From a small beginning the Chaineys built the Spread Eagle establishment into one of the outstanding resort service-centers of the upper Michigan district. They decided, almost a year ago, to dispose of the business and have since had many inquiries about it.

Paul and Louis Nelson, both skilled mechanics, will take active control of the business in the next few days, and will conduct all departments—the store, boat rental and repair, ice house, etc. They will expand the service wherever possible.

Drought Takes Toll Of Crops; Will Cut Yields

Drought conditions in Delta county described yesterday by E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, as "terribly dry" have caused a one-third drop in milk production and will reduce crop yields this year with a loss of thousands of dollars to county farmers.

Last general rainfall on August 15 came after a long dry period, and then was less than an inch. "That rain revived the crops, but only soaked down into the parched potato fields about three inches. We should have had twice that amount of rain to do much good," Wenner said.

The southern half of the county seems harder hit by the drought than in the northern part of the county. Wenner reported. Rains all summer have been generally little more than local showers, missing some sections of the county almost altogether.

Pastures Dried Up

The drought has dried up the pastures and many herd owners have been feeding hay, some of them for several weeks. The lack of green pasture has cut milk production an estimated one-third in the county—a great loss to the dairy industry.

"The pastures are as dry as a bone," Wenner commented.

Besides the loss in production now there is the threat of hay shortage during the coming winter because of the early consumption of this season's crop.

Silage corn is drying up in the fields and farmers are starting to cut the crop for storage in silo before more of the moisture is gone. Most corn fields are withering under the hot sun and dry wind, with the leaves of the plants turning dry as paper.

Potatoes, the county's chief cash crop, also has been hit by the drought, but how badly will not be known until harvest starts in a month or so. The yield will be smaller, however, the county agent said.

The production of green and wax beans on county farms for a local cannery also was badly hit by the drought. Many of the beans during the recent extremely hot weather dried up on the bushes. Again it was difficult to estimate the loss, but it ran high. Many fields from which four pickings were anticipated yielded only two or three.

Victory Garden Menaced

Garden vegetables generally suffered from the drought. Victory gardeners turned their sprinklers on evening after evening in an effort to supply moisture, and in Escanaba and Gladstone city water pumping records came close to previous all-time highs in July. Expectations are that water pumping for August will exceed the July volume.

The dry weather brought an increase in forest fires, but effective fire fighting organization and methods kept down the acreage burned over. Springtime pre-

I soaked my dirty handkerchief, and rubbed his forehead with it. His hair was not brown in color and very long. His whiskers were reddish and scraggly and he had a little mustache. His face seemed long and thin, and yet you could tell by his tremendous chest that he was a big man and powerful.

His eyes were not glassy out I was fascinated by his eyeballs. They didn't protrude; it was just that they were so big. When he turned them toward you, it was as though he was slowly turning two big brown tennis balls.

He had complete command of his thoughts. The half-delirium you would expect of a man trapped for eight days without food or water, just did not exist in him. He was just being himself.

His face was dirty from much sweating, but the skin of his body was white and clean. There was a small scar on his forehead and there were some light bruises on his arms.

Inside the plane, the stench was shocking. My first thought was that there must be another man in the plane who had been dead for days. I said to the pilot:

"Is there someone else in the plane?"

And he answered, "no, this is a single seater, old boy."

What I had smelled was the pilot himself. We couldn't see the lower part of his left leg, but we judged it must be gangrenous and in a horrible shape.

"I can move my right leg," he said, "it's all right. In fact I've had it out from here several times, and moved it around for exercise. But the left one I can't move."

I asked, "where did you get the cigarette you were smoking when we got here?"

He said, "your chap gave it to me. The one who came first. He lighted it for me and stuck it in through the hole, and went searching for the rest of you."

I was wondering if it wasn't dangerous for him to be smoking inside the wrecked plane. I mentioned something about his being lucky that the plane hadn't caught fire when he crashed. And he said:

"I'll tell you about that. Do you see that woods a little way north of us?"

There were several small woods but I said, "yes."

"Well," he said, "that first night they set fire to that woods. I could tell it by the glow in the cockpit. And here the plane was soaked with hundred-octane gasoline. I thought the fire would spread right across the field. But it didn't."

Actually what he had thought was the woods fire was a little town. Le Mesnil-sur-Oise, which had been set afire by shelling. I didn't bother to tell him, for he was alive, and after all what could the technicalities matter?

The Colonel Beat A Quick Retreat

Fort Knox, Ky. (AP)—Col. Jay M. Holmes of the Armored Replacement Training center here asked a private why he had not saluted and the man replied he had not seen him. "Soldier," Holmes said, "you'll have to be more alert than that if you ever get overseas, or you won't come back." "Sir," answered the private, "I just got back from 14 months overseas."

Snails have been known to go hungry for five years.

The scouts reported the object ahead was not a tank—but a tree.

Firemen Called To Scott Dairy Wed'y

An undetermined amount of damage was caused at the Scott Dairy company Wednesday night about 11 o'clock when fire broke out in the refrigerator at the plant.

The blaze was discovered by Phil Trudeau who turned in the alarm. It was quickly extinguished by the firemen, both regulars and volunteers, who responded.

Investigation yesterday disclosed that the blaze was caused by friction created when a bearing in the refrigerating machinery 'froze' and the motor kept on running causing the rubber and canvass belt linking the motor and pump to burst into flame.

LESICA GETS COMMENDATION

Postal Inspector Says He Has Improved Efficiency, Service

Lieut. Joseph Lesica Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lesica Sr., of North Cedar street received a commendation from his commanding officer, Col. Donald B. Phillips, for his work in improving the postal system at the KAAF base at which Lesica is stationed.

Col. Phillips' commendation was based on a report given him by a civilian postal inspector, H. H. Smith, who in a letter told the colonel:

"I made an inspection at the base mail room and six other mail handling units, namely, sections A, B, C, casual detachment and student squadrons 1 and 5 and am pleased to inform you that conditions were found to be extremely satisfactory. As a matter of fact, I observed a vast improvement in the system of mail handling and maintenance of records in the past few months. In my opinion, the system is now outstanding in efficiency and operation."

Darlan Played Part In Assisting Allies

AP Features
Adm. Jean Darlan, French politician, opportunist, became a brief but potent weapon in the hands of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied invasion commander.

It was the Fighting French and bitterly anti-British, Darlan nevertheless saved thousands of lives by switching from the Vichy French to the Allied banner, and ordering all resistance to the North African invasion to cease. Through his prestige, units of the French fleet at Toulon fled to Allied ports; others were scuttled at their bases to prevent confiscation by the Germans.

He was killed by an assassin on Christmas Eve, 1942, after only a month and a half in his new role. Historians still debate whether he was a traitor or true French patriot.

ESKYMOS GIVEN GRID UNIFORMS

Light Drills Ended As Weather Conditions Improve

Because of cooler weather conditions permitting more intensive football drills, Coach George Rutwich issued football equipment to the Eskymo griders Wednesday and ordered brick blocking workouts for both Wednesday and Thursday.

When the Eskymos reported for practice Monday, Coach Rutwich had planned only light drills this week with the griders wearing shorts and shirts but the weather in mid-week was ideal for football drills so the Escanaba coach changed the signals, issued regulation equipment and started brick body contact workouts.

No attempt has been made yet to divide the squad members into definite positions and this probably will be delayed for several more days, Rutwich said. Emphasis will continue to be placed upon football fundamentals, particularly blocking.

Despite the heavy talent losses due to graduation last June, Coach Rutwich is not unduly pessimistic about the approaching football season.

"We certainly can't expect anything resembling a championship team this year because we just don't have the experienced players, but we won't be second cousins to every team we meet either. We should win a few games," Rutwich said optimistically.

JONES GIVES UP HIS ARMY POST

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 24 (AP)—Lt. Col. Robert Tyne "Bobby" Jones, Jr., U. S. Ninth Air Force intelligence officer, has applied for a discharge from the Army under the over-28 regulation and is on his way back to the United States or already there, the Ninth Air Force disclosed today.

The noted Atlanta golfer, who joined the air forces as a captain in June, 1942, was 42 last March 17. He entered the replacement pool in England a couple of weeks ago after returning from an assignment in Normandy.

Jones came to Britain nearly a year ago and took up duties with a fighter unit. Returning to the scene of some of his greatest golfing triumphs, he said he was certainly glad to be here after months of "fighting the battle of the fighter command up and down the eastern seaboard" of the United States.

Jones had been a member of the officers' reserve since 1931, the year after he achieved his "grand slam" by winning four major golf championships. He was promoted from captain to major in March, 1943, at Mitchell Field, N. Y.

In civilian life he is a lawyer and a vice president of A. G. Spalding and Bros., New York sporting goods establishment.

CRUCIAL SERIES FACING DETROIT

Top Pitchers Picked To Hold Browns; Trout Starts Today

Detroit, Aug. 24 (AP)—Manager Steve O'Neill, obviously realizing the importance of the Detroit Tigers' four-game series with the league-leading St. Louis Browns to the Tigers' chances for the American league pennant, today nominated his two best pitchers as starting pitchers for the first two games.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout has been assigned to pitch tomorrow and southpaw Hal Newhouse will get the call for Saturday's job; either or both undoubtedly will be in readiness for relief duty in the double-header Sunday.

The Tigers, trailing the Browns by six games, probably are the strongest challenge to St. Louis' bid for the championship, but Detroit must take at least three of the four games to cut the Browns' margin, which looms as a sizeable job in view of the fact that the Browns have won 11 of 14 starts against Detroit.

Schoolgirl Retains Trapshooting Crown

Vandalia, O., Aug. 24 (AP)—A 72-year-old veteran who has been doing trapshooting for 40 years and an 18-year-old West Virginia girl overcame a stiff, chilly wind today to grab off of the Grand American tournament's most coveted crown.

F. E. Shaw of Joliet, Ill., who had fired in 20 of the last 21 Grand Americans without winning a major title, topped the preliminary handicap by breaking 96 out of 100 targets from the 20-yard line.

Charlotte (Skipper) Winski of Wellsburg, W. Va., just graduated from high school, took the women's division of the preliminary handicap for the second straight year with 86x100 from the 18-yard line.

Miss Winski became the second 1943 champion to defend successfully her crown. Her first was 17-year-old Bobby Stifal, Casey, Ill., who repeated in the junior competition.

Ford River Wolves Play One, Win Two

The Ford River Wolves defeated the Iverson Sport Handlers in a softball game on No. 2 diamond Thursday evening, Wednesday evening the Wolves took a game on a forfeit from the Brevorts. Batteries for the Wolves Thursday evening were Art DeGrand and Clarence London. The Handlers used three pitchers in their efforts to save the game.

Nevertheless, more than 80 per cent of the deer herd comes through year after year. I may be wrong in this, but have you or anyone else known of 50,000 deer starving to death each year in our 500,000 or more herd?

When they tell me that the deer will starve on jack pine or balsam, I get all mixed up. I have seen thousands of deer winter through and they ate balsam and jackpine.

If you put me on a diet of lettuce, I'd starve to death too. But I'm fix that lettuce with a bite of meat, another of potatoes, soon I would have a balanced meal.

Deer will eat lettuce (balsam or jackpine) in the winter but they will mix it with a diet of oak brush, sweet fern and canoe birch. I do not believe that any of them starved on this nondeer, non-meat and nonvegetable diet.

I think that each county nonhunter and the hunter, along with the state can quit arguing, put some common sense into this problem and settle it without "making so many faces" at one another. In the next article we'll discuss it further.

Johnny Bulla Snags Tam O'Shanter Lead At Seven Under Par

BY FRITZ HOWELL

Chicago, Aug. 24 (AP)—A year ago, in the Tam O'Shanter all-American open, Johnny Bulla of Atlanta, Ga., fired a 296, finished in a tie for 13rd place, and didn't win a dime.

But today the husky 30-year-old club swinger who quit professional golf to become an eastern airlines pilot, had a strange hold on a hefty share of the $42,500 prize dough at the three-ring circus, and a three-stroke edge toward the $12,462.50 top award.

All high-flying Johnny did today was carve out a 35-30-65, seven under par, to tie the course record, and hand a field of 122 professionals and seven amateurs—including eight former national open winners and seven P. G. A. champions—a neat kicking.

Bulla played 11 holes at par 72, and birdied the other seven, getting six birds on the back nine where four of them came in a row as he drove, pitched and putted like a composite of all the greats. Close on his heels, however, was the most dangerous of the modern club-swingers, Lord Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., who holed a 35-foot birdie putt on the final hole to post a 68—three strokes off the pace.

Bracketed at 69 were four stalwarts, including Pete Cooper of Gainesville, Ga.; Bud Lewis, Philadelphia open champ; Melvin (Chick) Harbert, the long-bitter from Battle Creek, Mich., and Gene Sarazen, twice winner of the national open, from Brookfield Farms, Conn.

Topping the amateurs in the open test was Jim Frisina of Taylorville, Ill., who had a sub-par 70 to tie pro George Smith of Lake Forest, Ill.

Harold (Jug) McSpaden, the year's big money winner and co-favorite with Nelson to take down the high prizes, was very much in the fight with a 71 where he was tied with eight others including such luminaries as Vic Ghezzi, former P. G. A. king, and Ed Dudley, prey of the P. G. A.

Ken R. Heilemann, St. Louis, Mo., chemist, paced the field of 26 in the amateur championship field with a 70, a stroke ahead of Ed Fargol, Detroit public links star, and John E. Markel of Reading, Pa.

Betty Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., duration national women's champ and one of three professionals in the field of 27 women, led the way through the first round of the pulchritude division with a 40-38-78, two over female par. She was over par at the end of 14, but birdied three of the last four with a 4-3-3-3 finish.

O Dear, Oh Dear
Would you like to be an expert on the winter food of the deer? If so then you must learn the names of every tree and every shrub in the woods where there are deer tracks.

If this is too much trouble, then you need only to be able to walk to any tree or shrub and put your hand upon it. You can shout to the world, "Here is what a deer will eat in the winter time."

I think that I can guarantee that you will learn 99 1/2 per cent right. No one will refute you but many will give you an argument. The only arguments will be, "Yes, but will they thrive upon it?"

That is when the battle will be gin. Some will tell you that, in feeding experiments, the only thing which will keep them alive is a diet of cedar, that this is the preferred food.

Others will tell you that they will die on balsam or jack pine but that birch and maple will keep them fat in the winter, for their feeding experiments have proven this.

We who have lived in the woods during the winter for the past 15 years or more, who have covered the woods in 40 to 50 below zero, know that there has not been enough cedar in Wisconsin during that time to feed over 10 per cent of the deer herd.

Nevertheless, more than 80 per cent of the deer herd comes through year after year. I may be wrong in this, but have you or anyone else known of 50,000 deer starving to death each year in our 500,000 or more herd?

CHANCES SLIM TO NIP BROWNS

St. Louis Team Needs To Win Only 20 Of 34 To Finish At Top

BY GILBERT MAYO

St. Louis, Aug. 24 (AP)—The string seems to be running out fast on the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees in their race to overtake the St. Louis Browns from the American league pennant.

Figures on performances thus far might indicate the string already has run out but there still remain the mathematical chances, of course, although they now soar into very high levels.

For instance, if the Browns sail on in at approximately their present .578 percentage pace on 69 games won and 51 lost, the Boston Red Sox must step up their gait from .538 to .743 for their remaining 35 games, and the Yankees must leap from a .539 stride to .757 for the 37 games still remaining on their schedule.

The Browns, with 34 games remaining, need only 20 more wins to finish the season at the top with 89 games won and 65 lost for a percentage of .578, unless the Red Sox can win 26 while losing only nine, or the Yankees win 28 while losing nine.

If the Red Sox or Yankees do it, they'll finish the season with 90 won, 64 lost—584.

They might have to do even better than that because the Browns will play 23 or their remaining 34 games at home and their record at Sportsman's Park for the season is an impressive .709 percentage—39 games won and only 16 lost.

The Red Sox and Yankees each still have a long road trip.

Sgt. Joe Smith Gets Lowdown On Doings In Sport

BY WHITNEY MARTIN
New York, Aug. 23 (AP)
Sgt. Joe Smith,
Somewhere, U. S. Army,

Dear Joe: Well, Joe, by the time you get this I suppose you'll be in Paris, gambling on the Paris-green I've heard so much about, although if you couldn't find that I know it wouldn't worry you as you will gamble on anything, if you get the right odds.

Anyway, we're all right proud of you boys, and marvel how you can get around so fast carrying all those Nazis. Every time we pick up a paper we read where you have 10,000 more Germans in a pocket. Must be light brigades, huh?

Durocher Fined Again
I'll try to catch you up on the sports news hereabouts, Joe. The National League race is the same, only more so, with nobody closer to St. Louis than Battle Creek.

The American League race is tighter than a elder press, though. The Browns still are leading, but they have the Red Sox, Tigers and Yankees near enough to be tail lights. Hal Newhouse and Dizzy Trout, Detroit pitchers, each has won 20 games now.

Maybe it isn't news particularly, but Leo Durocher got fined and suspended the other day. Sometimes I think he doesn't like umpires. The suspension didn't do much good as he ran the team from a box behind the dugout during the next game. A box seat driver, you might say.

A fellow named Bob Hamilton from Evansville, Ind., beat Byron Nelson in the P. G. A. finals, which is really knocking off the big apple as Nelson was expected to win if he had to use a croquet mallet. However, this Hamilton hasn't been out of the money in 15 tournaments, so maybe it wasn't such an upset after all.

The Tam O'Shanter Golf meet is on in Chicago and they had so many amateur entries they had to tee off at 6 a. m., which is practically the night before for some guys. That's a funny time for tea, isn't it? All right, it isn't funny.

Grid Rules Revised
They had a boxing show at Madison Square Garden the other night which was practically secret practice as far as spectators are concerned. A fellow named Jim McDaniel knocked out a fellow named Aaron Kupper in the fourth round. That's what you call a one-man cooling system, which the Garden certainly needs.

The eastern intercollegiate football association voted to change the rules to suit themselves, and with a lot of other groups doing likewise you won't know the game when you get back. As if you ever did. You always did think a mousetrap was just a cat watching a hole in a wall.

Paul Brown, late of Ohio State, is going to coach the Great Lakes footballers, and the Bainbridge Naval team isn't going to be quite the team it was. Eight pros have been transferred from there to Camp Perry.

Well, Joe, that's about all for now. I lost one of those French cigar lighters up around the Marne when I was there in '18. See if you can find it. Will you? Keep punching. Your Pal—Whitney.

Washington Can Set New Record For Cellar Team

BY WHITNEY MARTIN
New York, Aug. 16 (AP)—Perhaps it isn't offering much incentive as it's too much like telling a gent to hustle up and he'll miss the train by only one minute instead of 15, and the Washington Senators might figure that last is all, whether it's a shirt tail or a ball club.

But if the Nats can distinguish between a respectable last and a sorry last it might be pointed out that if they hurry just a little they might set an American League record by finishing with the highest average of any eight-place team in American League history.

The club, as of last Tuesday, was traveling at 427 pace, with 44 games left to play. The record for the highest percentage of a last-place club is .431, set by the Chicago White Sox in 1924.

Second in 1943
Incidentally, the Senators won the pennant that year, and the following year, and again in 1933, but for the last 11 years have been working downward toward last place. Several times it appeared they were about to make it, only to suffer relapses. They were stymied in seventh place three straight years from 1940 through 1942, but last year they slipped away back to second.

This year, however, it appears nothing can stop them, as they are two and a half games out of seventh place and going strong. That is, they're losing regularly enough to make it seem they will stay last.

The pace-setting St. Louis Browns were, as of Tuesday, playing .595 ball, leaving a difference of only 168 percentage points between the first and last place clubs.

That means the current American League race is one of the closest, if not the closest, in history, speaking from the standpoint of all club teams and not from the proximity of the first and second place clubs.

The Detroit Tigers of 1940 won the pennant with the lowest percentage of a champion, but their .584 mark was 233 points better than that of the last place Philadelphia Athletics.

The American League race in direct contrast to the National League scramble, which finds the St. Louis Cardinals 342 points ahead of the last-place Dodgers, and threatening the modern record of .763 set by the Chicago Cubs in 1906.

If it will make the Nats feel any better, it might be pointed out they would be in the first division if they were in the National League, as they were only 18 1/2 games out of first place Tuesday, while the Chicago Cubs, in fourth place in the National, were 29 games away from the Cardinals.

However, the Cubs were playing .461 ball, a better percentage than the Nats, so maybe you can't figure that way. We're getting a little figure-dizzy anyway, and if we keep this up will have the Cardinals of 1944 trailing the Athletics of 1916 by 12 games.

Anyway, if the Nats can increase their percentage by five points and still retain their hold on last place they will be the new champion of tail-end clubs.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

It is encouraging to note that the problem of educating kids in baseball has moved to the foreground of major league thinking.

The whole thing started recently when Grantland Rice, noted sports writer, accused the major leagues of failure to give proper regard to the promotion of baseball among the nation's youngsters. The challenge was accepted by Sam Breadon, speaking in defense of the major leagues, who declared that his club the St. Louis Cardinals, spends $100,000 a year on tryout camps and baseball courts, as well as contributing generously to the American Legion junior baseball.

Breadon also pointed out that big league clubs have organized Knott Hole gangs, kids interested in baseball, and invited them to the big league games as guests for free, and added that he has heard of the movies or graduate football managers or golf tournament managers inviting the kids in for nothing. Breadon asks pointedly, "Why do the schools neglect baseball as much as they do?" and then answers his own question, "Because it isn't profitable for them. — Were it profitable, they would take as much pains to coach sound baseball as they now do to teach football."

The White Birch lads were the fans' favorite in the championship game against the L&L team, on Sunday. Virtually all of Flat Rock was on hand for the battle and their vocal encouragement to the White Birch team was infectious, spreading quickly to large sections of the Escanaba fans who lined the diamond.

As the game unfolded along and it became obvious that the juniors were putting up a brilliant battle against the L&L, their fan support grew rapidly. When the last out was registered in the ninth inning and the White Birch team had copped a 2-1 decision, the cheers from the fans were spontaneous and enthusiastic.

The interesting part about this discussion is not merely that baseball leaders are arguing about whether organized baseball is doing the right thing for the nation's kids in the matter of baseball promotion, but rather that the problem is brought out in the open. Something constructive inevitably will develop from the arguments. All baseball men, including the pros and the cons in the present argument, know that the future of organized baseball rests with the nation's kids and that attention to the game must be directed to them to keep the sport at its highest standards.

The softball team with the largest and most loyal following in Escanaba city during this season was the White Birch Juniors of Flat Rock, which may account to some extent, at least, why this band of teen age youngsters walked off with the upper peninsula Class B championship and the Escanaba city championship on successive week ends. Although forced to yield years in experience to their opposition, the White Birch lads, all but two of whom are 17 years or younger, played heads up ball throughout the tournaments and won because of aggressive and spirited team play.

Nelson Sent To China On Inflation Problem

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—Here is the time sequence, as Edgar Hoover would say, in Washington's latest mystery—(no murder yet, but all hands alerted.)
Saturday, 10 a. m. — Donald Nelson tells Charles Wilson, his deputy, and other associates in the war production board that he is going to China on mission for the White House; to be gone three weeks or not more than four weeks at most.

Childs

Saturday, 6:35 P. M.—White House issued statement announcing mission, which is to keep Nelson in China "several months."

Monday A. M., exact hour indefinite—Nelson lets it be known he will resign if he has to stay away from war production job several months.

Monday, 4:30 P. M.—White House issues statement saying mission is "temporary" and denying it is "kick in the teeth."

Trouble Within WPB

Why this thing should have been so muddled and confused it is hard to see, until you realize how deep the conflict is within the War Production Board. Wilson and Nelson have been at odds for a long time. Wilson has twice tried to resign, and twice has been persuaded by the President to stay.

In his battle for gradual reconversion to peacetime production, as surplus materials make such steps possible, Nelson has fought the military and certain civilian friends of the military. Wilson has been opposed to any move that would interfere with all-out war production.

Nelson has had the support of powerful political forces on Capitol Hill, including Senator Harry S. Truman and the members of the Truman committee, both Democratic and Republican. He has had the backing, also, of many in his own organization. It was the popular side to take.

In the course of this struggle, however, Nelson has not handled himself very well. He has lost the confidence of men in his own shop which he might have kept.

The whole situation cries out for stronger control at the top—someone who could put an end to this kind of feuding. Neither side is wholly in the right.

Army Has Big Surplus
The supply branch of the army, under Lt. Gen. Somervell, has accumulated some fantastic surpluses that cannot conceivably be used in this war. Production demands are sometimes arbitrarily doubled or tripled, and then the blame put on civilian production officials when the demands are not immediately met.

On the other hand, Nelson has exploited popular issues—little business vs. big business, for example—beyond any jurisdiction in reality. It will take something more than permission to manufacture a few electric irons to save little business, Nelson has tried to strengthen his own position by working the little business line.

The President has described Nelson's errand in China as "most important and pressing." Yet he is to be gone, he now says, not more than four weeks. At the minimum, four days are required in travel each way. Allowing four weeks, that would mean 20 days in Chungking.
